

I Know

Written by Philip C. Vinson
Sunday, 29 June 2008 18:35 -

---

I know when you hurt, The evil that comes I avert.
I know when things are bad, And the hard times you have had.
I know when you are awake and want to sleep, Be not disheartened, you, I safely keep.
I know of the worries you are going through, And your disappointments, too.
I know of the times you are upset with Me, And the way you wish things would be.
I know you wish a change I would make, And all your troubles from you take.
I know you think what more can go wrong?
Why have You let this go on so long?
I know you wish the rapture would take place, So tomorrow you would not have to face.
I know you think I am not answering when you pray, That I am not listening to what you say.
You think your troubles must have gotten too big for Me, Everything you go through I know and see.
I know there are things you wish you knew, And things you would like to forget, too.
Heaven that you have longed for you will see, Then no more suffering there will be.
I know what you have been through,
I understand; I had My time of suffering too.
When on your face you fall down flat, The devil still didn't win, God saw to that.