

The Stroke

Written by Philip C. Vinson
Sunday, 29 June 2008 23:22 -

Is there someone you love that had a stroke?
On our necks satan tries to place his yoke.
Even in your worst of times make God a must.
In Him always keep your trust.
Through all your grief and pain, In Him our faith we must retain.
All of our tomorrow's Jesus knows.
And each day His love He shows.
When you are so tired and weary,
It has been so long since your heart was merry, Jesus will give you new strength to face each day.
And grace when things are so dark and gray.
All of our sorrows Christ brought us through.
And I know He will do the same for you.
It did not cross my mind that He did not care. So I know your burdens He will help you bear.
One day something else satan will try.
But on Christ we will still rely.
One day his reign on earth will end.
And there by my side will be Jesus my friend.
Can you just look to Jesus in good times and bad?
And when things go wrong at Him you are mad.
He sees your pain and what you are going through. And in your darkest hour, He will say "I love you."